Thornton Beach Plans Hit Snag; County Mad

The Broderick-Terry duel has taken a back seat to recent events at Thornton Beach.

And plans to transform the area, bordering the western edge of Daly City, into a beautifully developed, rapidly accessible area, have gone askew.

The board of supervisors is again concerned over why the state division of beaches and parks hasn't done something about building 1,600 feet of access road into the beach.

Tangled Mess

Problems of building an access road, a project in cooperation of the State Highway Department and Parks Department and promoted steadfastly by both the Daly City Council and Chamber of Commerce have been a "tangled mess" for three or four years, according to Harold Stallings, county manager.

"The problem is tied up in the department of finance . . . we've asked them to put up or shut up as far as the beach is concerned," Stallings said.

Thornton Beach State Park consists of 51-plus acres with a shoreline frontage of 3,091 feet.

No Facilities

There are presently no developed recreational facilties, according to San Mateo county director of recreation and parks Ralph Shaw. However, the park contains "an excellent well."

Thornton Beach was used heavily during the 1950s when the area was utilized to some degree for both picnicking, sunbathing and surf fishing.

The county adopted a master plan for San Mateo county beaches in 1944, amended it several times and finally adopted it in 1946. In 1945 the state legislature appropriated ten million dollars for beach acquisition on a matching basis with the county. The county beaches, Shaw said, were then turned over to the state so the state could purchase additional land.

Picnic Area

By Sept. 1, 1962, the state plans completion of the access road and development of an area for picknicking, sunbathing and other outdoor activities. The swimming-picnicking area is to be fashioned in a hollow sheltered cove running above the beach and sheltered from westerly winds.

Westlake Shopping Center Celebrates 11th Birthday

Westlake Shopping Center is going all-out to give itself a birthday party this week end; Saturday, June 9th.

The event marks the eleventh anniversary of Westlake Shopping Center, and to commemorate the date, a giant birthday cake is being constructed with practically everybody invited to attend the party.

Some 6,000 pieces of birthday cake and 6,000 cups of hot coffee will be served to people visiting the shopping center Saturday afternoon. To take care of the job of serving the cake the Skyline Assembly of Rainbow Girls have taken on the work as a community project.

The birthday party itself is sponsored by the Westlake Merchants Association, and it will commence at 11:30 in the morning and continue throughout the afternoon until all of the 6,000 pieces of cake and 6,000 cups of coffee are served.

Last year, at a similar party, five thousand guests were served from the giant cake, which will be located in the center of the shopping center. It is expected that at least a thousand more will attend this year.

The Shopping Center was opened eleven years ago, with one store (The Food Center) and has grown to its present size of 85 stores. Additional stores are presently under construction in the center. The first of these new stores, The Fashion, is scheduled to open this summer, with a number more following shortly.

Bids Called For New DC Post Office

Congressman J. Arthur Younger yesterday announced that bids have been called for the construction of Daly City's new 671,500 square foot postal facility.

The new post office will be the largest in San Mateo county and service the entire North county.

To be located on Sullivan avenue, between 88th and 89th avenue, the structure will be built on a 15-year lease arrangement with a successful builder taking over the private arrangements where the post office department has an option.

Younger said that the Daly City and Westlake Post office will remain in full operation and that the new annex will be a mail operation and handling facility.

Bid forms may be secured at the regional real estate office, of the Post Office, 79 New Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Swedish Girl Slated As Foreign Exchange Student At Westmoor

Westmoor High School received notice this past week that the first foreign exchange student will be coming to spend a year at Westmoor High School, on September 1, 1962.

The American Field Service will fly the student into the International Airport, at which time the American family, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Monson, will meet the young lady and act as her American family for a year. Mrs. Eleanor Raymond heads the home arrangements.

The foreign student selected for her year at Westmoor High School is a young Swedish girl, Miss Helena Frisell, from Stockholm, Sweden. She will enter Westmoor High School as a senior.

The American Field Service is a private, non-profit organization, whose purpose is the furthering of understanding and good will among the peoples of the world. It carries out this purpose by bringing teen-age students from abroad to study in American high schools and to live with American families and communities for a year.

The Westmoor Citizens Committee chairmaned by Rev. Herbert Tweedie, has been actively soliciting funds to make possible the young Swedish girl's visit. At present, thirteen businessmen and local firms have contributed monies to make her stay possible.

Thanks should be given to the following donors: Robert Hunter, J. Ferrari, Les Richie, Wm. Lagomarsino, Westlake Subdivision Improvement Association, New Mission Heating and Ventilating Company, Dr. Mitchell Bilafer, Westlake Insurance Agency, Geo. Harrison Realty, Gene Harrington Realtor, Sai-Wu Gardens and Westlake Bowl.

Additional money is still needed to underwrite the foreign student's stay. Contributions may be made to the Westmoor American Field Service Club of Westmoor High School.

Pacific Markets Grand Opening In Winston Manor

The Pacific Markets will hold a grand opening for their new store in South San Francisco's Winston Manor Shopping Center, Saturday.

Korla Pandit, famed TV, radio and theatre personality, will entertain from 11 a.m. to 6 p. m. on the console organ at the new market.

The Winston Manor store has undergone extensive remodeling, all the way from the new "we-serve-you" meat cases to the attractive new tile floor.

The Pacific Markets also operate the Pacific Super in Daly City, the Housewives Market in Oakland, and the Town Market in Richmond.

Student Plan To Gain Respect Of Merchants

Daly City merchants concerned with the problem of teenage shoplifting can take new hope from the Benjamin Franklin school.

Eighth grade social studies students at the school have agreed upon a plan to "regain the respect of the merchants."

The idea, submitted to instructor Paris Simmons by eighth grader Dale Thomas is this:

Teenagers will show an identification card which testifies they are worthy of respect and fairness while being waited on.

The card, according to Thomas, would be preferably a "small wallet-size card showing the person's name, picture and simple oath he or she must take before receiving the card, stating to the effect that they are willing to uphold the law.

Thomas' plan is that not every student will be able to receive a card that applies for one, but must earn it in some way or another, through citizenship, marks, etc.

"These people would form into a sort of a club, perhaps the Better Citizens Club, etc.

"The desired effect would be that this club would be an elite, envied club."

Thomas also suggested a jury system within the club to weed out erring members.

This entire plan has won the support of instructor Simmons, a vitally interested citizen in the problems of juvenile delinquency and author of the weekly "Why" column in the Westlake Times.

"It shows that the teenagers themselves are taking action to stop juvenile delinquency. I think it is a move in the right direction," Simmons stated.

More Arrests Are Not The Answer

More police and more arrests are not the answer to the growing crime wave in American cities, Dean Joseph D. Lohman of the University of California's school of criminology told the San Mateo Community Council recently.

"The police will make more arrests; they will put "meter maids" on parking meter detail to free policemen for beat duty; they will do whatever is needed to pacify the public when the heat is on from the press," Lohman declared.

"But this will not solve the problem," the noted educator and former sheriff of Cook county, Ill., pointed out.

Dean Lohman explained that the so-called "crime wave," now prominently reported by the local metropolitan press, is not a local phenomenon, nor even an American phenomenon. Local police measures cannot eliminate it because its roots are spread throughout the whole 20th century world, he said.

"Every country is experiencing a rise in delinquency," he said, "and this fact alone should cause us to examine the whole fabric of our modern society if we would know the reason for the increase in crime, particularly among the young."

Among the influences which contribute to the breeding of juvenile delinquency, he cited the rapid change in social relationships during the last decade, with the migration of white, middle class society to the suburbs, and influx of culturally deprived persons, largely non-white, to the cities.

The influence of mass media also imposes a surface uniformity as a veneer on a society which is becoming increasingly varied underneath the surface, and this creates tensions, Dean Lohman said. He also declared that under present pressures of population growth, suburban growth and general mobility of population, there was far less communication between people than formerly, and that personal relationships today were on "a catch-as-catch-can" basis.

A Matter Of Perspective

The hullabaloo over the cost of prescription drugs is a fine example of how perspective can become dangerously distorted.

That has been made clear by the secretary of the American Pharmaceutical Association. As he put it, "People are willing to pay more to get a hangover than for an analgesic to relieve it." Testifying before a Senate subcommittee, he added: "Per-capita expenditure for liquor is $54 annually, for prescribed drugs $12. Because potent drugs cannot be dispensed on the average, and because averages flatten people into cold statistics, I don't put much stock in averages. But these put the problem into perspective."

Pricing a drug is not so simple as the uninitiated seem to think. For one thing, some of the most important drugs have a very short life. Unless dispensed quickly they lose their potency and become worthless. For another, great numbers of drug research projects lead to exactly nothing, and at a heavy cost to the producers. Obviously, the successful preparations must pay for the failures if we are to have new therapeutic developments.

Finally, the proposal for reducing the life of drug patents to three years, as against the 17 years which now applies to all patents would, if enacted, be about the surest way possible to undermine the great drug research programs. No one could calculate the grim effects of that on the future health of the nation.

Straws In The Wind

A highly centralized government creeps up on a people slowly. In the United States it invades the various states bit by bit. The people accept a gift from Washington and in so doing lose a little more local independence. Eventually, states fall under federal authority in local affairs as federal aid extends from the cradle to the grave.

We have federal money loaning, federal housing, federal planning for our future, federal farm controls, federal taxes for travel, plans for federal medicines, federal electricity, etc. Each one limits individual activities.

Just another straw in the wind of federal control of the individual is the proposed federal tax on boats and the elimination of the right to claim a two-cents-per-gallon refund on non-highway gas. The Oregon State Marine Board claims the federal proposal usurps the prerogative of states to regulate and license boats.

In the majority of measures which extend federal authority over states, the people are not aware of what is happening to individual and states rights.

The boat license issue brings federal control right home to the individual so he can understand it. If it is right for boats in a state, why not a federal license for cars, marriage licenses, dog licenses, building permits or any other function now under state jurisdiction? It's something to think about.

The View From ..Behind The Badge

Written and Edited by Daly City Police Department

The stupid cops . . .

The merchant complains. His establishment has been entered and an amount of money has been removed. The money is in the form of rolled nickels.

Inspector La Bruzzo interviews the complainant. The names of five people who had the opportunity to commit the crime come to light. La Bruzzo interviews the five, separately.

Each young man agrees to under a polygraph test. La Bruzzo makes certain that the agreements are legal. Then he makes arrangements to have the tests conducted.

The polygraph operator in this case is Sergeant Forrest Paul, of the San Mateo County Sheriff's office. The so-called lie detector is situated at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City. La Bruzzo and Paul have worked together before.

La Bruzzo transports the prime suspect to Redwood City. Sergeant Paul conducts the examination. The suspect flunks. Paul is certain that he is guilty, and says so in no uncertain terms.

The inspector and the suspect return to the Daly City police department. The suspect makes no admissions. La Bruzzo obtains permission from the householder to search the place where the boy lives. Some of the loot is recovered.

The suspect still will make no admission. Investigation shows, however, that the young man is on probation. The officer and the probation officer confer. It is decided to cite the person to Hillcrest for a hearing.

The boy is cited. The case is cleared.

While La Bruzzo completes the necessary paperwork, he interviews the suspect further. He is talking to a bitter and vindictive seventeen-year-old.

"If you stupid cops would prevent these things, you wouldn't have to go around rousting innocent people like me."

How about the lie detector test?

"That test is wrong. I didn't do it. You cops are sure stupid. Why didn't you prevent that murder that happened awhile ago? Ever since then you cops have been keeping us kids off the hill, and we don't have any place to hang around any more."

This from a seventeen-year-old adolescent who is unable to read or write.

COUNTY DOINGS

The Pacifica fire department is rapidly becoming famous for beach rescues involving steep cliffs and high tides.

Latest rescue took place on Devil's Slide, about half a mile south of the city limits.

A party of nine from the fire department, both regulars and volunteers, hauled up Patricia Hall from the Devil's Slide when she became stranded while trying to climb to the top with three friends.

The Jefferson high school board has decided to haul most Oceana students to classes next fall despite a state two-mile walk-in restriction.

The decision was made because of the extreme hazards which the present Coast Highway and construction of the new freeway would pose for walking students.

All students, except those living in Sharp Park and the Brighton Beach area, will ride buses to the new school, which opens in the fall.

Construction could begin in August on Pacifica's main street freeway. The division of highways said with few complications work on the street stretch of freeway from the end of Edgemar freeway to about Vallemar, could start in August. Problems of right of way along the Sharp Park golf course reportedly remain to be solved.

A new concept in city planning called the "cluster development" has stirred a ripple of excitement among the Pacifica planning staff and certain councilmen.

The method utilizes short streets and cul-de-sacs and creates the development of structures in small clusters, thus leaving large amounts of area open for use as parks and green belts.

This new concept, according to planning consultant Ed Robinson, is ideal for hilltop development and through use of small lots, and thereby reduce greatly the amount of hilltop grading and scarring.

Food For Thought

By the Daly City Ministerial Association

Vacation has become a fixed institution in this country. There is hardly an American who does not engage in this famous pasttime, and why not? Present day life with its multiple problems brings on tensions, frustrations and uncertainties. We are forever busy finding out what our neighbors are doing or intend to do.

Yes, it is true that our neighbors play a very important role in our lives and the impact is very great and visible. We are constantly on the march, because our neighbors are doing it. We seem to follow our neighbors too often and too close.

Most of us, who are considered good Americans and loyal citizens once we get on the road, forget our virtues and good manners. We even let go of the principles of our faith. We simply transform into different human beings

But, no matter where we go and what we do, God is with us. He sees us and follows us on every step of the way.

And what does the Lord ask of us, but to walk humble with Him all through our lives. The influence of the church, or the synagogue must remain with us always. Me must cling to the teachings of our great religious teachers and philosophers in order to be what religion teaches us to be — good and kind human beings.

There is no harm in taking off from time to time. A period for rest and recreation, provided we do not throw away our virtues and good manners overboard. Too few Americans, while on vacation, ever bother to attend religious services or serious lectures on life.

The opposite viewpoint should be taken, because of the abundance of time we should take advantage of the opportunity to search our souls and reactivate our mental processes for deeper evaluations of man in this world.

It has been an old tradition among millions of people of the Jewish faith to study the famous book of the Talmud during the summer months called "The Ethics of the Fathers." This book, written several thousands years ago, is a compilation of rabbinical sayings and philosophic observations of life.

And Jewish people, by the millions still follow this intellectual pursuit—and there is no better time or season to do it other than the long summer period when man's mood is gay and cheerful, when nature is so majestic and beautiful and Glory of the Universe is filled with reverence and compassion.

Man should always be with God.

Then God will always be with man.

FIRE ACTS

This article is written by Daly City Firemen and published in this paper for the purpose of keeping the public informed about their Fire department, its duties and associated activities.

Self preservation is one of the most important natural laws known to man. Another law of equal importance is protection of the offspring

There are very few parents who would hesitate to sacrifice their life for the sake of their child or children, and yet parents through neglect, misunderstanding or ignorance allow their children to be permanently disfigured or killed by fire.

According to U. S. Government statictics more children under the age of fourteen die by fire than from polio, Leukemia, heart disease and rheumatic fever combined.

Certainly many things can be done and improved upon to bring this high loss of life down. One field of major importance is the parents responsibility to their children when employing a baby sitter.

So with this thought in mind we would like to quote to you verbatim from a pamplet we received from another fire department. And we quote: "Parents, for the safety of their children and their own peace of mind, should employ only baby-sitters who are reliable and have a well developed sense of responsibility, character reference, and when at all possible, previous experience and training.

A baby-sitter is replacing you, the mother and father of the child, and must be capable of handling any emergency that may occur. Therefore, you will want a baby-sitter who is physically and mentally capable of taking correct and proper action in any emergency.

As parents, you have a responsibility to your children and to the baby-sitter that you employ. You must give the baby-sitter every possible advantage by giving adequate instructions for the care and protection of your children. Here are some basic tips in preparing a baby-sitter to assume these responsibilities:

1. Make arrangements with the sitter to arrive early enough so they may receive complete instructions. An early arrival will allow the sitter to become better acquainted with the children and their pets, especially if a dog is in your home

2. Never ask a sitter to care for a very ill child. When a child is slightly ill, the parents should tell the sitter prior to the assignment. If the sitter is underage, prior approval from his or her family should be obtained before leaving your children in the sitter's care.

3. Oral and written instructions should include the following, trying to anticipate any and all emergencies that may occur:

A. Written instructions:

1. Emergency telephone.

1. Emergency telephone numbers of your local fire alarm headquarters, police department and family doctor. These numbers should also be posted by telephones.

2. The telephone number of a nearby neighbor who may be called for minor emergencies.

3. The telephone number where you may be reached and also the name and address where you will be.

4. If you do not have a telephone in your home, explain the best means of reporting an emergency.

5. Special instructions of feeding or special care, appropriate television programs and bedtime.

B. Oral Instructions:

1. How to regulate heat, and if there is an emergency "cut off" switch for the furnace, where it is located.

2. Explain how to operate your stove and other appliances that may be needed.

3. The locations of all telephones in your home.

4. The location of the electrical fuse box and flashlight for use in case of power failure.

5. The location of first-aid supplies.

Before you leave the sitter, you should be sure all doors are securely locked and that the sitter is familiar with the operation of all doors, windows and screens that can possibly be used as exits in case of emergency. Point out the best possible routes to follow in case of fire.

If you have agreed with your sitter upon a time for your return home, make every effort to return at the specified time. Telephone your sitter if there is a delay.

Infants are utterly helpless against fire. Older children, 3 to 6 are inquisitive and have a lack of fear of fire. Children from 6 to 15 frequently lack judgment and training in cases of fire emergencies.

Beauty queens, bands, firecrackers, Chinese dragon —a celebration to end celebrations — greeted Steve Allen when he arrived in San Francisco for a special press gathering in honor of his new Westinghouse series, "The Steve Allen Show," which premieres on June 25 over KPIX at 11:15 p. m.

Among the beauty queens to greet the television star when he arrived at the San Francisco Ferry building helicopter airport was Miss Pacifica, Viginia Schloegel. Also present were almost 1,000 fans from as far away as Eureka and Sacramento carrying placards which read "Welcome to the Bay Area" in the name of their community.

Following his reception at the heliport, he was guest of honor at a press luncheon, where he answered questions about his new show. He indicated that the show will have no special format and will be informal in nature. He said he would be "working frequently at the piano, also at a desk." He added "we will be taking the show on the road some time and the first place I would like to come is San Francisco."

He then entertained the guests by playing the piano and singing several selections from a musical show he has written, called "Sophie," based on the life of Sophie Tucker.

A man of extraordinary talent, in addition to his television, stage and movie career, he has written seven books, more than 2,000 songs, has 30 albums to his credit and has written title songs for many top movies.

He is married to motion picture actress and TV star Jayne Meadows, and has four sons, Steve, Jr., 16 years of age; Brian, 13; David, 11, and Christopher, four years old.

His new show will be taped in Hollywood. WBC has completely remodeled a theater at an investment in excess of $350,000 and renamed it "The Steve Allen Playhouse." The theater will accommodate and audience of 375 and tickets for the telecasts are available. Write the program in care of KPIX.

STEVE ALLEN is welcomed to San Francisco by Miss Pacifica, Virginia Schloegel. Allen came to plug his new television show, "The Steve Allen Show."

DC Men Graduate From Golden Gate

Robert Bruce Douglas and Theodore Henry Peceimer, both residents of Daly City, were graduated Tuesday, June 5, at Golden Gate College's 61st annual commencement ceremonies. Douglas received the degree of bachelor of business administration and Peceimer the degree of master of business administration.

Featured speaker at the graduation exercises was Dr. Theodore A. Distler, executive director, Association of American Colleges, Washington, D. C. He addressed more than 170 graduating students on education for service. The mayor of San Francisco, George Christopher, made a special presentation.

Douglas went to Fremont high school in Oakland and is currently employed as an internal auditor at the Emporium in San Francisco.

Peceimer attended Balboa high school and the City College of San Francisco. He is a transportation representative for the California Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco.

Balls, graduation parties, dinner dances, art exhibits — June is one of the busiest months of the year when the season's activities draw to a close before vacations begin.

A rainbow of bouffant gowns in pastels interspersed with white coats as the younger set of the local high schools held their traditional "Senior Balls." Westmoor held their annual affair at the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel on the 25th of May. Last Friday evening was Senior Ball night for Jefferson and Terra Nova. Jefferson also held their ball at the St. Francis while Terra Nova's dance was in the Golden Empire Room of the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

Several adult groups are in the dancing mood, too. This Saturday the St. Francis Heights Improvement Association will hold a mid-summer dance. The Hillside Club has scheduled its annual spring dance for June 12. Both affairs will be held at the "House of Parties," 22 Hillcrest drive, in Daly City.

Down Pacifica way, the Peninsula Art Association is holding an invitational preview this Friday for an art exhibit honoring our country, which will be held at the Sanchez Adobe for six weeks. Bob Southworth and Luther Spraker of the Art Guild of Pacifica are doing the professional work in hanging the show.

Also on this weekend, the Valley Fair Festival will be held in San Jose. The executive board of the Pacifica Art Guild has accepted an invitation from the festival to exhibit, so there will be paintings from their members at San Jose.

PROFILE SKETCH: "But I haven't done anything," she protested. "I don't know why you want to interview me."

This was the reatcion of this week's community leader when we approached her for a few facts about her activities. When we had finished talking to her, we had almost filled two pages.

Scouts, PTA boards, church projects, charity drives — our nominee for this week's community leader is a shining example of a woman truly dedicated to her community.

A resident of the area for 15 years, she is past president of the VFW auxiliary, assisted for many years in the Sunday School of Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, has served on the PTA boards of Garden Village and Benjamin Franklin, was cancer chairman for the Broadmoor and Garden Village area, worked as a volunteer in the YWCA office, was active in Cubs, Brownies, Girl Scouts and will again serve next year on Benjamin Franklin as well as Westmoor High School PTA boards.

We salute Hazel Eagleton, who lives with her husband, Lloyd, and their youngsters at 1007 Nimitz drive in Broadmoor.

VACATION NOTES: Busy with exciting plans for a trip abroad are Ray and Kay Logan and daughter, Judy. Ray will be the official representative of the Daly City-Colma Lions Club at the Lions International Convention, which will be held at Nice, France, for four days. The Logans also will visit other parts of France, as well as Spain, England, Denmark, Germany and Italy.

A vacation at the World's Fair in Seattle is on the summer schedule of Mr. and Mrs. James Poor and their four youngsters.

We read somewhere that boating is now the number one sport in the United States. If we didn't know it before, we certainly would now after chatting with a few of our local citizens. In fact, we just might turn this into a boating column.

Either they have a boat or they are going to get one. Everyone is spending weekends at one of the many lakes surrounding the Bay Area.

Not one but two boats has the Gil Westoby family, who go boating on weekends at Lake Clementine, Berryessa and Clear Lake. All four of his youngsters could water ski at the age of eight.

Boating every other weekend in their boat is the Bob Hunter family, who water ski at East Park reservoir, which is located west of Maxwell.

A sailing family with a racing sloop are the Jack Kimberleys, who are members of the Lake Merced Sailing Club. They have a race scheduled almost every other weekend until October.

VISITORS: It was a busy time at the Dr. Warner (Fern) family household — Mr. and Mrs. David Warner of Chicago left by plane as Fern's mother, Mrs. Belle Thall (also from Chicago) arrived on another for an extended visit.

From Ohio, arriving this Saturday at the home of Woody and Ginger Straight is Woody's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Straight and their two children. They are on their way to the Seattle fair.

NEWS BRIEFS: A wonderful turnout at St. Mary's Guild bridge-luncheon held last Friday at Westlake Bowl. Lucky for two years in a row is Dorothy Ober, who received a door prize last year and also this year.

Traveling up to El Rancho del Obispo — "The Bishop's Ranch" — last Sunday was a large contingent of families from St. Martin's who spent a pleasant day of swimming, picnicking and family games.

In an impressive ceremony held recently at the Crocker Masonic Temple, new officers of the Skyline Assembly of Rainbow Girls were installed for a term of four months.

Lovely in pastel formals, the girls include: Pat Woodman, worthy advisor; Sue Duport, worthy associate advisor; Janice Washburn, Charity; Leslie Baer, Hope; Nancy Danielson, Faith; Cheryl Neugehaur, recorder; Shirley Hendrickson, treasurer; Carol Vanham, chaplain; Barbara Newman, drill leader; Jo Ann Gamblin, Love; Darlie Schenk, Religion; Cindy Travinsky, Nature; Nancy Jarvis, Immortality; Mimi Ettlinger, Fidelity; Cynthia Lewin, Patriotism; Trudy Josselyn, Service; Judy Wilson, confidential observer; Eugenia Murphy, outer observer; Patsy Phillips, musician, and Dorothy Getchel, choir director.

Reminder: If you have any news items, vacation plans, out-of-town guests, be sure to drop a note to: From a Feminine Viewpoint, care Marchbanks Publications, 3317 San Jose Avenue, Daly City.

P.S.: Be sure to let us know if you have a boat, too!

TOP PUP — Anita Hathaway and Judge Bruce Burket present trophies to Ray Belanger, 100 Peoria drive, Daly City, and his five-month-old bulldog puppy "Taralene Maydee" at Westlake Kennel Club Show last week.

PARKING STRIPS USUALLY REQUIRE MORE ATTENTION

Few areas of the garden need more attention and receive less than that narrow strip of land between the curb and sidewalk in front of your house. A ragged parking strip always detracts from the appearance of a house, yet ragged is the word for more parking strips than we'd like to admit.

Some people are spared the parking strip problem since there are no sidewalks in front of their house, and others solve it by simply filling the area with gravel or brick. Having a properly planted parkway, however, is ever so much more appealing than having one which is paved.

There are several planting possibilities for parkways. If the right type plant isn't selected the parking strip can be a nuisance, needing special attention. And when this extra attention isn't forthcoming, the result can look worse than plain dirt.

Ground covers, being more resistant to neglect, are preferred, and the California Association of Nurserymen lists several that are specially well suited to parkways. These, of needs, must take a certain amount of punishment from adolescent trespassers, from animals and from the incessant clutter that inevitably accumulates from passersby.

One of the best is Aaron's Beard, that root-creeping cover which sends up countless short arms on each of which rests a large yellow cup of gold. These blooms come in summer only, but the foliage is always attractive.

Aaron's Beard is neither a matting cover nor a high-mounding one, remaining usually some eight or 10 inches high. It belongs to a family of many members, all of which bear the typical "Golden Cup," but none of which grow in the same way as any other. Be sure you get the right one when setting out to plant a parkway (see botanical note below).

In planting Aaron's Beard, as in planting any ground cover, the gardener must exercise some patience. It won't fill in the first year, but after a winter in the ground, when all the roots will have spread below the surface, your patience will be rewarded. Water is important to a speedy job of covering.

Another excellent ground cover, and one which Californians should avail themselves of more often, is the native Point Reyes Ceanothus. This glossy-leaf creeper can be kept to about six inches in height with occasional trimming back of the more erect shoots. In spring, usually in March, it bears lovely lavender-blue flowers, typical of the "Wild Lilacs."

As a parkway cover, the Point Reyes Ceanothus is strictly a happy choice. It shares the family resistance to drought, but at the same time it tolerates more water than other Ceanothus. Its deep green, glossy foliage has a clean look about it that the dust of passing traffic seems not to affect. And once it takes over, your weed problems disappear.

Point Reyes Ceanothus has an aversion to alkaline soils, and one way to avoid trouble is to be sure the soil is well drained. Addition of leaf mold and/or peat moss at planting time is a C.A.N. recommendation. Extra water during the early stages of growth is, once again, the surest way to guarantee fast covering.

Ivy is the last (but certainly not the least) of the padkway covers we'll mention here. Actually, all parkway problems could be solved by Ivy, but it would make for a good many dull neighborhoods if the material were never varied.

Either English Ivy or Algerian Ivy is best for parkways, as both of them are fast to cover and easy to maintain. The Algerian Ivy comes either green or variegated, so take your choice.

Ivy's willingness to be clipped and pruned severely makes it an ideal parkway cover, for it can always be kept neat and within bounds. If you go after it a couple of times each year with clippers, no further care is really needed.

* Botanical Note: Aaron's Beard is to be found only as Hypericul Calycinum. Point Reyes Ceanothus is botanically Ceanothus Gloriosus. English Ivy is Hedera Helix, and Algerian Ivy is Hedera Canariensis.

BOTTLE BRUSH, TEA TREES, ADD INTEREST TO GARDENS

Form and texture are the prime features of the Bottle Brush and Australian Tea Tree, a decorative shrub duo that can add plenty of interest to your California garden. Both are rigidly patterned in their growth habits, stiffly assuming shapes that are distinctively different from anything else you are apt to find in the plant world.

Bottle Brushes and Tea Trees come to us from the land down under, but each family has undergone considerable change in the hands of plant hybridists here. The result is that members of the California Association of Nurserymen today offer a wide selection of improved strains for garden use.

If you've ever seen Red Bottle Brush in bloom, you couldn't really mistake it for anything else. The bristly blooms, which give the shrub its common name, look as though they could very well be used to wash out bottles. The blossoms are all stamens and completely encompass the stiff stem.

When grown against the background of a fence, the rigid framework of this shrub is highlighted and enhanced. Give it a full sun, for nothing short of an oven would discourage a Bottle Brush. Prune in late summer to encourage a somewhat more shrubby habit than that which comes naturally.

There are other bottle brushes to attract your attention, including a weeping variety and a prostrate form good for bank plantings. The Weeping Bottle Brush is more a small tree than shrub, growing up to 25 feet and sending down pendulous branches on which the scarlet brushlike flowers are born in profusion. These come primarily in late spring, but may be seen throughout the year. You can use it as a specimen tree or in conjunction with the common Red Bottle Brush.

Prostrate Bottle Brush makes an excellent covering for dry banks in full sun, needing practically no attention, but attracting plenty of it.

Bottle Brushes are all easy to grow, being highly resistant to conditions of drought and poor soil. They are probably better for an occasional watering, but don't overdo it. As mentioned earlier, they stand any amount of sun and prefer the maximum.

The Australian Tea Tree, an angular shrub which assumes, with age, a tortuous, twisting character, is one of the most durable shrubs to be found in C.A.N. nurseries. No amount of neglect can disturb it. No amount of heat, wind nor salt spray can detract from its appearance. If you ever drive through Golden Gate Park in San Francisco, you will see some venerable plantings of the Australian Tea Trees lining the various drives.

Australian Tea Tree has box-like, grayish-green foliage and in spring it bursts forth with masses of small white flowers.

The named Tea Trees which C.A.N. members offer are more refined than the durable old favorite mentioned above. They have been bred for small-garden use and are more compromising in their willingness to blend with other shrubs in a garden border.

The foliage of these hybrids is needlelike and the blooms are either double or single in a variety of colors. Named varieties to be found include: Pom Pom, a double pink; Snow Flurry, a double white; Red Damask, a red, and Ruby Glow, a double, blood-red. Stems of this latter variety are purple and attractive in their own right.

Gardeners should give the hybrid tea trees more water than the rugged Australian Tea Tree demands. Drainage is all important, however, and Paul S. Swensson, executive director of The Newspaper Fund. care should be taken to insure it before you plant. Tea trees, hybrid or no, are more apt to succumb from too much water than from too little.

* Botanical Note: Bottle Brushes botanically are Callistemons. The Red Bottle olatus improved; Weeping Bottle Brush is Callistemon viminalis, and Prostrate Bottle Brush is Callistemon phoeniceus prostrata. Tea Trees botanically are Leptospermums. The Australian Tea Tree is Leptospermum laevigatum, while the named hybrids are forms of Leptospermum scoparium.

Pacific Manor PTA Last Meeting June 7

The final meeting of the school year for the Pacific Manor PTA will be held on Thursday, June 7, in the community room. A community sing will start the evening festivities at 7:30 o'clock with the business meeting commencing at 8 o'clock sharp.

This meeting should be of particular interest to all members as the new format planned for the coming year will be announced and the final windup of the old year bids adieu. To top off the meeting, recreation director Eldred Lokker will give the program entitled "Education for Constructive Leisure." This will be most welcome for families who are heading for the hills, going to the lakesides or planning for a campsite as we find the spot and encouragement for those planning a normal vacation, including brochures, data on private and organizational camps for the youngsters for the whole state of California. Also a film on Point Reyes brought to life with color and sound entitled "Island in Time."

To end the evening on the social side will be the serving of refreshments by the teachers who have been fulfilling heavier duties for us during the past year. So plan on enjoying this evening with your fellow members as a way to end the school year and a start in planning the summer vacations for a rich memorable time for the whole family.

Jefferson Advisor To J-School Meet

Miss Joan A. Duren, 6996 Mission Street, Daly City, will participate in the California State high school journalism workshop, June 25-29, at California State Polytechnic College, San Luis Obispo.

Miss Duren, an advisor at Jefferson high school, will join some 100 other journalism students, advisers of publications, and teachers of journalism for a week-long program. It will be Cal Poly's first annual workshop sponsored by the Technical Journalism Department in the new $1,500,000 Graphic Arts building which opened this year.

Keynote speakers and panelists will include Ray Spangler, publisher of the Redwood City Tribune and regional director of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism society; Miss Betty Yater, assistant editor of the California Farm Bureau monthly newspaper, and

SSF Student On World Tour

Tokyo, Hawaii, and London are some of the stops Mike Bolin will make on a two-month trip around the world. The South San Francisco high school student is one of two winners in a contest sponsored by the National Boy Scout Council, International Employers Club, and the Armed Forces Transport Service.

Mormon Missionaries Assigned To Daly City

Recently assigned to labor in the Daly City area as missionaries for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) are Elder Wade F. Brooksby and Elder H. Ron Brown. Elder Brooksby, originally from Fredonia, Ariz., was transferred here from Red Bluff. Elder Brown, who is from Provo, Utah, came here after being in the Richmond district of San Francisco.

As missionaries in the Northern California Mission, these young men are a part of a group of 11,000 ordained ministers who, throughout the free world, are engaged in teaching non-Mormons about the gospel. They were called to the ministry by President David O. McKay, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Latter-day Saint missionaries spend two years at their own time and expense (they receive no wage or support) to carry the message of Mormonism to all who are interested.

The program of the church is now being presented by them in a series of six weekly discussions given to groups of people who are interested in knowing more about the Mormon faith. A new group begins the series each Thursday at 8 p.m. in a home within the Daly City area.

Elder Brooksby and Elder Brown are associated with the Latter-day Saints chapel at the corner of Hillside and Brunswick, and extend a hearty invitation to all to come and worship with the congregation each Sunday at 12 noon and 6:30 p. m. They may be contacted by calling DE 3-4072 or HE 1-0571.

Adjoining Original Edifice was dedicated in 1895. Extreme right, is portion of The Christian Science Publishing Society, home of The Christian Science Monitor and other periodicals.

Thousands Attend Mother Church Meet

Gratitude for spiritual growth and progress was the keynote as Christian Scientists from many countries attended the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., Monday afternoon.

Uncompromising reliance on the unlimited resources of God, Spirit, opens the way to the permanent solution of every human problem, The Christian Science Board of Directors emphasized in a special message.

Bearing witness to this were incidents of spiritual healing read at the meeting. They included healings of pernicious anemia, tuberculosis, pleurisy, diabetes, cancer, and mental illness. Also reported were healings of alcoholism, broken bones, deafness, heart trouble, and impaired vision.

Named President of The Mother Church for the coming year was Ralp E. Wagers of Boston and Chicago.

A native of Michigan, Mr. Wagers is a well-known Christian Science teacher, practitioner, and editor. He traveled throughout the world as a Christian Science lecturer prior to becoming Associate Editor of the Christian Science religious periodicals in 1959. In addition to his work as an editor, he is currently heard on the international radio series "The Bible Speaks to You."

The major challenge of the hour is spiritual deficiency which would tempt men to seek their highest good in materialism, Mr. Wagers told the meeting.

Devine resources are ever available, he declared, "to meet the basic needs of mankind, as well as to fulfill the spiritual hunger of the human heart."

Stressing the vital importance of a deeper, more practical application of the spiritual teachings of the Bible, he said, "Let us go beyond mere formal religious devoutness and achieve the spiritual-mindedness that enables us to minister to the people's spiritual needs as Jesus did. This is the way in which all physical, moral, social, and economic needs may be adequately met. Then the power of Spirit over the flesh will be demonstrated, and we shall be so occupied in this grand ministry that the threats of materialism will be silenced and the voice of spiritual Truth will become increasingly articulate to us."

The need for spiritual vision and courage in an age of continuous change and adjustment was underscored by Mrs. Mary Lee Gough Nay, of Boston, who served as President for the past year.

By GARRY NIVER

My mother always told me there would be days like this! Being an intrepid adventurer, at least I like to think so, though others may disagree, I decided to try my hand at a sport euphemistically known as water skiing.

In the last several years this activity has been immensely popular and my conforming nature made me feel that I was missing something valuable in life if I didn't try — besides it's a good way to meet pretty girls.

We arrived at Lake Berryessa at 10:40 a.m. with car, food, liquid refreshments and Mother Sill's sea-sick pills. I jumped nimbly out of the car, resplendent in my red alpaca swim suit and Wilt Chamberlain hat, and looked fearfully at the chilly looking bulk of water. Along with my buddy, Joe, and two scintillating beauties, Loretta and Bonnie (boy, this sport sure has fast results), we put the boat in the water.

Coach Tom Morgan Praises Christman

Not wanting to ruin my orange suede yachting shoes, I stood on the shore while the girls pushed and tugged the boat off of the trailer.

Off we went over the calm water towards an unknown destination in the middle of the vast lake. Joe was the first to don the rather clumsy looking orange vest known as a "lifesaver." He jumped overboard and before long was cutting over the wakes on skis.

After a half hour of his show-off antics, we took a vote on who would be next. The democratic procedure ended 3-1 that I would be the next victim . . . I mean skier. I was the lone dissenting vote. I protested vehemently that I just came along to watch. "My arthritis, my mono-trichinnosis, my pigeon toes," I shouted.

Being a gentleman, I naturally insisted that the girls go first. I pleaded my case, telling them that my Blue Cross had ran out and that they might get arrested for litter-bugging if they threw me in. I finally conceded with a rather large push overboard from Joe, who used to be a buddy, and found myself floundering in the chilly lake.

"What about those fresh water sharks — vicious man-eaters," I countered. "I hear that the Fish and Game Department has stocked this lake with Piranjas," I desperately added.

It was to no avail. The next thing I knew, two skis came happily skipping towards me. I put the skis on and my right leg drifted away. I got control of my right one and my left leg took off. I finally grabbed hold of the tow-rope and both of my legs drifted away — each in the opposite direction.

"Hold on tight," Loretta shouted. My blue hands grabbed onto the rope in a death grip and I faithfully promised that I would not let go. The boat took off at a tremendous speed, my skis departed from my feet, and I pitched forward on my face. Despite the water rushing through my brain, I remembered the last instructions of "don't let go." The water flew up my nose and pounded into my eyeballs. "Rather a strange sport," I muttered to myself. We traveled over half a mile before I hit a log and was shaken loose.

I tried to get back into the boat, but my friends, and I us that term loosely, would not hear of it. "Keep trying, my lad," I heard them shout as a foot caught me on the forehead and catapulted me back into the water.

I kept trying and each time I emerged from a fall, a volley of raucous laughter would greet my water-logged ears. "I don't even belong to the same union as Lloyd Bridges," I protested. A little girl, pushing four years of age, came by on one ski, behind a big Mandella with a blown Chrysler, and splashed water on me. "Smart little show-off," I gurgled. "Bet I could beat her on the golf course."

My wrinkled skin and bleary eyes gave me the appearance of lying in the bath tub all night drinking wine, which, come to think of it, must have been a better fate than this. After 42 attempts, one broken ski rope, three fish bites, a touch of the bends and a new tank of gas I was completely exhausted. "One more time," Loretta shouted.

I took ahold of the rope and all of a sudden I rose out of the water. "Impossible," I said to myself. The water suddenly took off from under me and an exhilarating feeling passed through me. It was a long day, but it was worth it. Being of the excitable variety, I clapped my hands in glee and you know the rest.

Exhausted, bruised, lacerated, skinned, scratched and disheveled, I climbed triumphantly into the boat. "Lessons anyone?" I asked through swollen lips.

PL SOUNDS THE DEATH RATTLE

The once glorious Peninsula League, overburdened by ten high schools, gasps its final breath this week and prepares to be laid away in the annals of the record book.

The five-year-old loop, which produced many collegiate and professional stars, will die auspiciously Friday afternoon when Capuchino meets Aragon in the title-decider

Both Capuchino and Mills are battling it down to the wire for the final PL pennant ever to be offered to a Peninsula high school

When the curtain falls Friday afternoon such traditional rivalries as Jefferson-San Mateo, Capuchino-South City, and Westmoor-Mills will also fall with it.

Starting next year the league will split with South SF, Jefferson, Westmoor, Terra Nova, El Camino and Oceana combining to form the North Peninsula League.

San Mateo, Burlingame, Aragon, Capuchino, Mills, Hillsdale, Crestmoor, will form the San Mateo County District League.

In the meantime Coach Rod Losberger's Westmoor Rams will keep things alive today when they trek to Burlingame to meet the Panthers.

The Panther hardballers are currently 6-11 in league play and a win by the hilltoppers from Daly City could salvage them some final respect in the league. A win would pull the Rams out from the next-to-last rung and vault them up to seventh place.

Westmoor's brilliant sophomore, Bruce Hix has taken over the PL batting lead from Wally Bunker. Hix is currently hitting .476, while Bunker has slipped to .467.

Losberger plans to start either Harry Brown or Tito Torres in today's 3:15 p.m. finale at Burlingame.

Coach Steve Mezzera's Jefferson Indians, who upset highly regarded Hillsdale last Friday, still have an outside chance at third place. The Indians, who surprised everybody by putting on a dramatic second round stretch-drive, could grab the show money if South SF is knocked over by Mills.

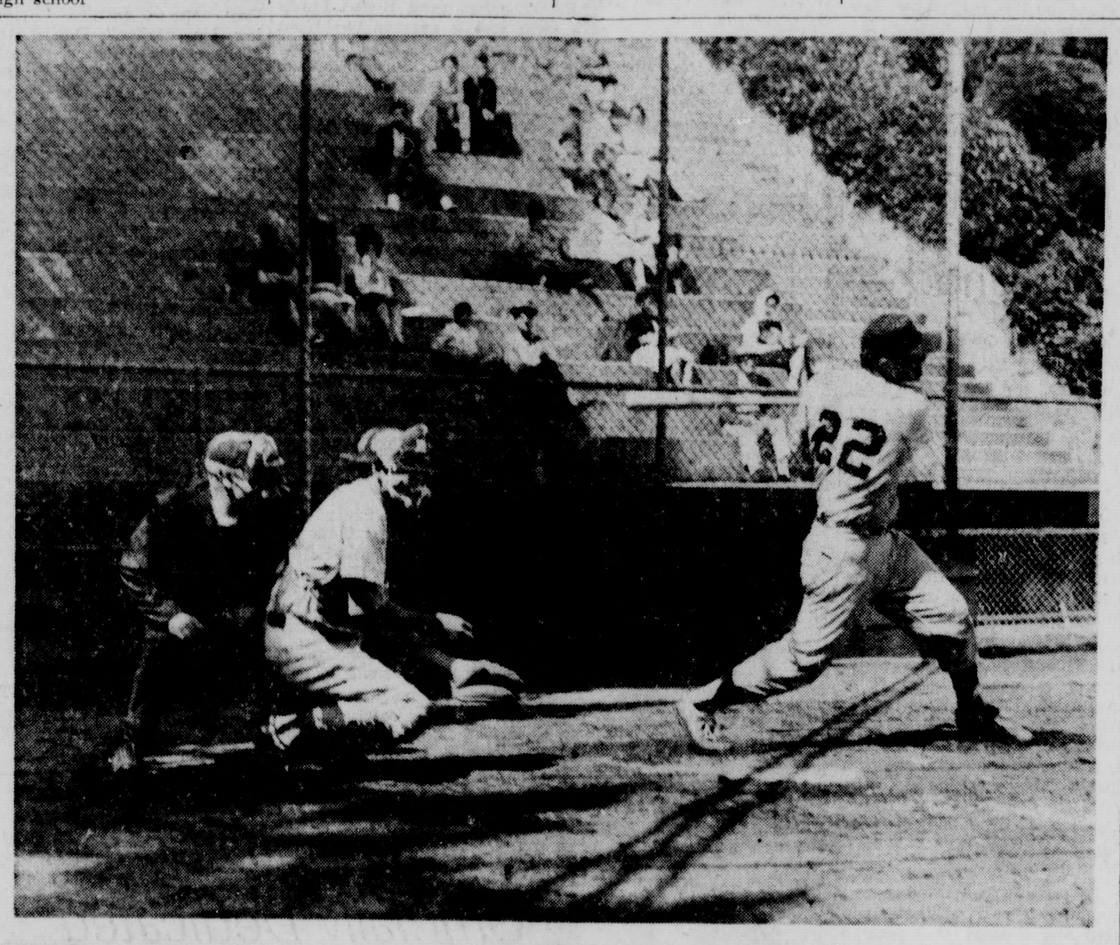
The Indians, led by the booming bats of Rich Reitz, Mike Rovai and Mike Morton turned back Hillsdale 6-5 in an extra-stanza thriller at Marchbanks field last Friday.

Reitz, who is currently hitting the ball at a .400 clip, lashed a single into left field in the bottom of the eighth to drive home Morton after the latter had singled, in the bottom of the eighth.

Iron-arm Bob Miller came on to relieve Carl Carpenter in the fifth inning and was credited with the win.

The Indians jumped out into a 4-0 advantage in the fourth inning when Al Cacicedo, Miller and Carpenter all singled, and Larry Restivo boomed out a long double.

The same Indians came from behind in the bottom of the seventh to send the game into overtime. Reitz led off with a double and came bouncing home on steady Mike Rovai's single.



JEFFERSON'S Al Cacicedo tees off on one of Bob Futterer's pitches in last Friday afternoon's Jeff-Hillsdale game. The Indians, behind the hitting of Rich Reitz, Mike Rovai and Mike Morton, upset Hillsdale 6-5.

New Hunt Regulations Have Minor Changes

Hunters in California will find regulations changed very little in 1962, as only minor alterations in season dates were made by the Fish and Game Commission in setting the new regulations May 25. The principal difference is the two week reduction of the deer season in northeastern California.

With field conditions generally better than they have been in three years because of a wet winter, hunters can anticipate good seasons as these regulations go into effect July 1, reports the Department of Fish and Game.

Principal 1962-63 season dates include: Deer—Early season, August 4 to September 23; late season, September 22 to November 4, and Northeastern area, September 22 to October 21. Bear—Statewide September 22 to January 1, 1963. Pheasants — November 10 to November 25, except in Imperial and part of Riverside counties where it last until Demember 9 Quail and Chukar — November 3 to January 1, except northeast California, where it ends December 16

Regulations for migratory birds and waterfowl are not set at this time, but must wait until federal framework regulations are issued by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Dove and pigeon regulations are set in July, waterfowl regulations in August.

Copies of the hunting regulations will be available from license agents shortly after July 1. Hunters may obtain them when replacing their 1961-62 licenses which expire June 30, 1962.

Hale, Smith To Pilot DC Dragsters At HMB

The Half Moon Bay drag strip, on the Coast Highway, 26 miles south of San Francisco, will be the scene of Northern California's fastest drag races this Sunday.

South San Francisco's famed Championship Speed Shop duo of Dragster No. 1 and Dragster No. 2 will make their appearances and attempt to batter the existing Half Moon Bay speed marks.

Last Sunday at Cotati, the No. 1 car, piloted by South City's Sammy Hale, shattered the five-year-old elapsed time record with an 8.59 second timing and turned 176 miles per hour.

The Champion Speed Shop No. 1, currently the worldest fastest and quickest supercharged Chevrolet, is ranked fifth nationally and holds the California state title

The Champion Speed Shop Two, gasoline propelled, will be driven by Don Smith. It has exceeded 164 mph and has a low et of 9.31.

Both supercharged Chevrolets were built by Daly City's Jim McClennan.

Hale has not been beaten in an eliminator race since the new N. 1 car's inception in mid-February.

In an added attraction, Northern California's two fastest and quickest super-stock Chevrolets will duel each other. Hans Gelin, San Francisco, with his 1961 Chevvy, will meet San Leandro's Tom Grove and his 1962 Chevvy. Both cars turn speeds in excess of 110 mph with e.t.'s in the 12 second bracket.

Misracks In Spoiler's Role

M & S Builders clinched at least a tie for the Tri-City Midget League baseball title when they downed the San Bruno Merchants, 8-3, behind the pitching of Bruce Collins.

M & S meets Parkview of San Bruno at Buri Buri park Sunday at 2 p. m. while Sun Valley Dairy, the only team with a chance at the title, travels to Daly City to take on Misracks Sporting Goods at Colma school.

A Sun Valley loss, coupled with an M & S win will clinch the crown for the Builders, while any other combination or losses by the two clubs will force replays of their tie games.

Trailing, 3-1, in the fourth inning, the Builders scored three times on Larry Bernardini's three-run single to take a 4-3 lead. Jerry Burton and Collins each slammed out doubles to pace M & S's 14-hit attack. Steve Burke and Steve Vawter paced the Builder defensive effort with sparkling cacthes in the outfield.

The PAL Sergeants upset Misracks Sporting Goods of Daly City when they took a 5-4 win. Jerry Martinez threw an eight-hitter at Misracks, but the day's big hit was John Cauchi's fourth inning triple with two on to put the Sergeants in front, 4-3.

Steve Gibson also belted a triple for the winners, while Bill Morris played standout defensive ball at third base. Jeff Becker's two-run homer in the first inning topped the Misrack effort.

Sun Valley Dairy scored three times in the top of the seventh on Steve Morello's three bagger with the bases loaded to take a 4-1 win over the PAL Officers. Steve Murphy for Sun Valley and the Officer's Paul Ancell locked horns in a pitching battle which saw a little bit of everything happen, including a triple play started by shortstop Bob Shactsky of the Officers. Morello, in addition to his game-winning triple, threw a man out at third base from his post in right field.

Ron Rumble, Officer's centerfielder, paced all hitters with three safeties and sparkling defensive catches.

Jim Skuza slammed a first inning PAL homer and relieved Steve Pennington on the mound in the fifth to top the PAL effort. Pennington and Willie Ergas each contributed timely triples to pace the Detective's 11-hit attack.

DC BALL LEAGUE IN CLOSE RACE

This year Daly City fans are being treated to one of the most closely matched divisions in local diamond history. The 1962 National Division of the Junior Baseball League tallies up at this point with no team showing less than two losses.

This week, BYA Flying A upset the favored PAL Tigers, 3-2. Dean Taylor hit three-for-three for the A's and Marv Smith went all the way on the mound. The Tigers outhit the A's but Grady Procter and Ron Smith's defensive play kept them from scoring.

Coach Jim Davis described his OLM Jr. team's win over the PAL Cubs, 15-5, as a real team effort. Morin of OLM allowed the Cubs four hits. OLM rapped 12 hits off Cub pitching. Thompson and Davis of OLM both garnered two hits.

Holy Angels Shamrocks and OLPH had a game called because of darkness. The Shamrocks were ahead at the time, 8-4. As the game was called in the top of the fifth, the game will be resumed from that point with the score 8-4 at a later date.

Skyline Plaza Merchants won over the PAL Cubs, 14-2. Smith gave up three hits to the Cubs and Webber collected two for three.

St. Cecilia's had to come from behind twice to take the nod over All Hallows. Basse and Gavin hit the doubles that made the difference in the 6-5 win.

Rocky Collins pulled down another win for the Holy Angels Shamrocks. He gave up only three hits and smashed a bases-loaded triple to pace the Shamrocks to a 6-1 win over BYA Flying A.

McDonough of St. Cecilia's was credited with a 4-1 no-hitter against OLPH. He fanned 11 in the process. Bassi hit three for four.

The PAL Tigers knocked off the Skyline Plaza Merchants, 14 to 8. Credit for the win goes to the bats of Keith Stoller, Ron La Rosa, Ken Schmidt and Bob Banos.

AMERICAN DIVISION

Tom Barnelles, local druggist and sponsor of the formerly invincible Daly City Drugs baseball team, will have to give coach George Benson a supply of aspirin tablets to go along with bats.

Benson is having his troubles. His star pitcher, Paul Clayton, was picked up by the Les Vogel Pony League team. Since that time, the Drugs have dropped three in a row. In their first game, the PAL Yankees edged out the Drugs, 11-10. Highlight of the gamewas a 320-foot home run by Barry Patthoff. The Yanks offset this with an eight-run third inning featuring six solid base bits. Difference in this game was catcher Ray Koch, who pegged out six of the Drug's base runners.

The return game saw Malich of the Yanks give up a single hit to the Drugs en route to a 6-5 win. That hit was given to Barry Patthoff, who promptly hit a home run. That and several Yank errors allowed the Drugs to again come within one run of the Yanks.

Misracks squeezed by Parkmerced, 3-2. Bob Patterson and Mike Chellone shared the mound for Misracks, allowing only five hits. Richite "The Iceman" Heintz went all the way for Parkmerced and gave up six hits. Dave Gaub and Allen Namanny each garnered two hits for Misracks. Zipper and Kerwin got two for Parkmerced.

Joe Dutto contributed a great deal to Silver Terrace's 9 to 6 win over Daly City Drugs. Dutto pitched a four-hit game and slammed a three-run homer.

S. F. PAL Yankees knocked over South Sunset, 8-0. Phil Hanna helped out with a home run, and Jim Malich came through with a triple. Johnson of South Sunset smashed two singles.

Tommy Hogan, Parkmerced fielder, clouted a grand slam home run in his team's 8-7 win over Art Colvin BYA. Partnoy and Grosse allowed BYA only six hits while Herbert gave up only four. Seven errors marred the game. Richie Heintz drove in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Heintz dazzled the Art Colvin BYA batters with a two-hit game, and slammed two doubles and collected three RBIs. Zipper Kerwin was up to his old trick of stealing bases.

MIDGET LEAGUE

The big surprise of the Midget League this week is the BYA Forresters' 6-5 win over the powerful PAL Red Sox. Losing only to the league leading PAL Constables in a real close one, the Red Sox had been favored to wipe out the Forresters.

In the sixth inning, Smokey Morton snapped the Red Sox's garters with a single. Two more Forrester base runners also climbed on. Billy Meek then came through with the blow, a double, that broke the garter and dropped the Red Sox. Wayne Walarinta went all the way as winning pitcher, allowing six hits.

George Harrison Realty came up with two wins, downing the Misracks Midgets, 5-4, and the OLPH Midgets, 8-1. Coach Rocky Kubowitz attributes the wins to what he calls the "OK Boys" and his "Gold Dust Twins." The OK boys are J. O'Dea and Guy Kubowitz, both batting over .450, and his Gold Dust Twins are G. Garber and Bob Georgetti.

The PAL Red Sox smashed the Holy Angels Colts, 18-2, as a preliminary to their defeat at the hands of the BYA Forresters later in the week.

Wayne Silber allowed the Colts three hits while Ciardella and Nolan collected three hits each. Jacobson of the Colts hit two for three.

The PAL Braves went on a hitting spree against the PAL Giants. Twenty-five hits for the Braves were turned into 23 runs. The Giants turned five hits into 14 runs. Bill Brown and Gary Ham each smashed out homers for the Braves.

Parkmerced's Bill Frahm continued his winning ways this week, downing the South Sunset Midgets, 2-1, on three hits. Nathan's single and Boston's triple accounted for the tying run while Frahm, Levy and Glendon combined singles with a South Sunset error for the winning run.

PAL CONSTABLES

The undefeated PAL Constables cleared a tough one this week in disposing of the OLM Midgets, 7-5. Star of the game was Coghlin of OLM with two doubles. Ellis of the Constables also collected a double.

The Cavalry arrived three runs too late for the PAL Yankees as they lost to the PAL Indians, 4-1. Runge, Schrock and Broadbent shared pitching chores to allow the Yankees only three hits as the Indians collected seven off Girabaldi.

Parkmerced took the BYA Blazers, 16-1. Parkmerced's new coach, Bill Short, seems to have the secret that shifted Parkmerced into high gear. After two losses at the start of the season, they now look like they might be a contender in the Western Division.

South Sunset came back to avenge their earlier defeat by taking batting practice on the PAL Giants. They pounded out 15 hits off Saiz, the PAL chucker. McGlain allowed the Giants three hits while teammate Smith led the plate parade with four hits.

Misracks failed to stop the league-leading PAL Constables as they went under, 10-4. This game saw Ernie Marchant win his fourth straight game with no defeats. The PAL cause was helped out by Bill Curran's triple.

Papes gave BYA Relish Bakery a 4-3 win over OLPH via the no-hitter route despite a little wildness. Opposing pitcher Hall of OLPH allowed the Bakery boys only two hits.

Les Bastedo's PAL Yankees came up with an upset this week, dumping the PAL Braves, 4-3. The game went seven innings with Wilson of the Braves striking out 14 batters and Girabaldi of the Yankees K'ing 10. Greer of the Yankees collected three hits.

The PAL Indians broke a win streak of four in a row for BYA Bender Roofing by dropping them, 7-3. Smyser was the big chief with the war club, getting three hits, including a triple, a double and single and three RBIs.

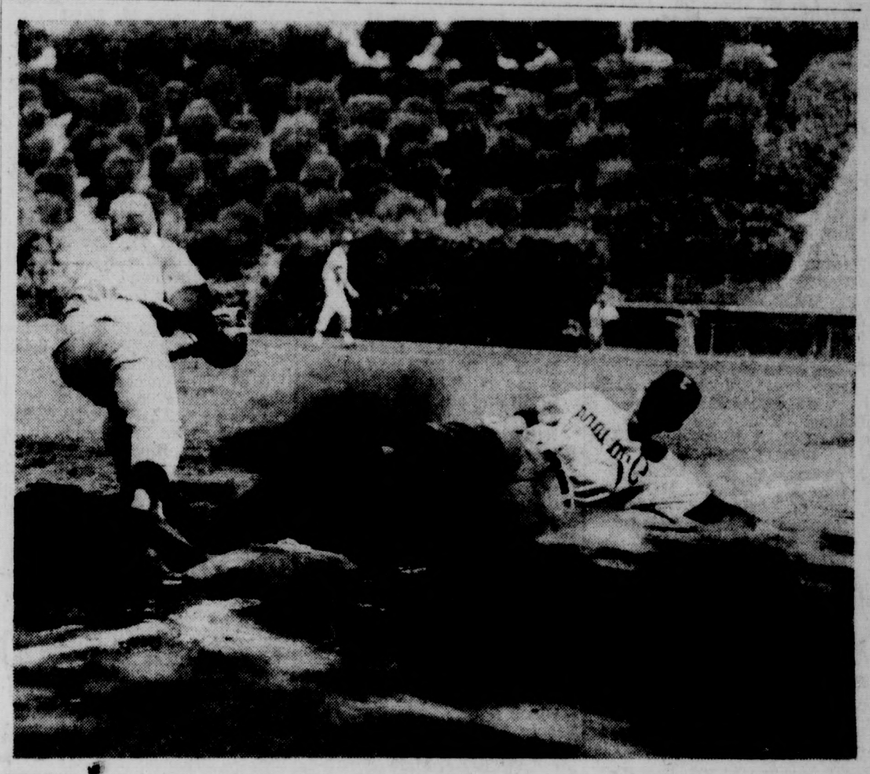
OLM claimed a home run hitter this week. Sysieth collected one in their 13-3 win over the Holy Angel Colts. Roche allowed Colt batters only three hits.

George Harris Realty utilized the double play combination of Barger and Kubowitz to keep Holy Angels Lions off the bases in a 7-1 win.

Doug Baskett of Relish Bakery slammed out two triples as his part in the Bakery boys' defeat of the Holy Angels Lions, 10-1. Noffsinger went the distance, allowing Lion batters three hits.

PAL Red Sox upset the PAL Indians' tepee as Bob Nolan tossed a two-hit, 1-0, victory. Cherevellers hit a long triple to help out.

OLM and the BYA Forresters played a tight ball game. Spieth allowed the Forresters two hits to collect a 5-2 win. Becker of OLM slammed a triple and Phillips got three hits.



JEFFERSON'S Rich Reitz slides feet first into first base in an attempt to beat Hillsdale's Ron Babcock's throw to first. Reitz was out here but later garnered two hits to pace the Indians to a 6-5 upset win.

FISH AND GAME STOCKS TAHOE WITH NON-CATCHABLE TROUT

The largest one-day trout plant in a single lake in the history of California will rush down the pipes of ten fish tanker trucks into Lake Tahoe, Tuesday, June 12. Strangely enough, these fish are not intended to be caught—not right away, at least.

The plant is being made by the California Department of Fish and Game as a part of the experimental Lake Tahoe research study—a joint California and Nevada effort to improve fishing in this huge and beautiful body of water set in the Sieras.

A total of 200,000 fish adding up to 10,500 pounds will be planted. These are not typical catchable fall-spawn domestic wild strains—Kamloops rainbows, noted for their smashing strike on a fly and their fighting ability, and Lahontan cutthroats, the original inhabitants of Lake Tahoe when it once supported a famed sport and commercial fishery.

These 200,000 trout will be planted in two locations—one at the Kiva picnic site between Taylor Creek and Richardson Camp off Highway 89 at the south end of the lake, the other at the Wildlife Conservation boat ramp near Lake Forest at the north end of the lake. The fish will all be marked by a system of fin clipping so that fish and game biologists in charge of the project will be able to check anglers' catches and analyze the success of this experiment. It is hoped that these trout will survive in the lake to grow from their present three to five inches into trophy size trout.

Therefore, it will be in the best interest of fishermen if they try to avoid catching these fish for the first few weeks they are in the lake—giving them every opportunity to become established.

To help alleviate fishing pressure on these wild trout, and to provide additional information for the research study, nearly 1,000 large catchable rainbow trout will be planted at the same time.

6th Graders Visit Canadian Consul

Visiting the Canadian consul highlighted Mr. Davis' sixth grade study of Canada for social studies, in Columbus school. A letter requesting permission to visit the consul was written to San Francisco's Mayor George Christopher.

'To my knowledge, this is the first class to visit the Canadian consul, Mr. Davis said.

Mr. Meech, commissioner of trade for the consul, talked to the children about his duties for fostering trade between Canada and the United States.

Mr. Alt, the consul general, welcomed the children and told them about the consul's duties. There are about 11 consuls in the United States, located primarily in port cities.

The children were taken on a tour of the consul building and were shown the research and film libraries. They were shown a film about the St. Lawrence Seaway, in which children had a bird's eye view of Queen Elizabeth's yacht, Eisenhower and Nixon. The group also heard a brief resume of the history of Canada and learned some other facts of interest, such as the official languages are French and English, that about 18 million people live in Canada, and that most of the population is centered in the extreme southern part of the country, due to climatic conditions in the northern part.

"It was a most rewarding experience," Davis stated.

Elderly Woman Artist Has New Original Work

Daly City's answer to Grandma Moses is Annie Kohlauf of 520 Washington street, Colma.

Mrs. Kohlauf is 64 years old, yet brings new and arresting ideas into her art work.

A collection of her collages is presently on display at the Westlake Library in Daly City.

Using seaweeds and succulents, pieces of wood and glass, bits of metal and stone, Annie comes up with original creations which show a startling symmetry of rhythm and design.

Her unusual collection at the library makes one stand and stare. The names express the work: "Beezlebub," "Wandering Soul," "In the Dark of the Night."

"Life today is tumult," explains Mrs. Kohlauf. And her collages express tumult, yet with a fineness of feeling one experiences while listening to a Wagner chorale.

Mrs. Kohlauf has created several decorations for the library, all free of charge. Flower displays are her specialty.

"I intend to go back to college," she said with enthusiasm. She attended design and sculpture courses at San Mateo and San Francisco state colleges A native of Munich, Germany, Mrs. Kohlauf and her husband, Edmund, a semi-retired commercial-sports fisherman came to the United States in 1923. Mr. Kohlauf helps his wife find material for her art.

Several pieces of twisted wood found in her collages were discovered in the Sonora Pass.

A lady who thinks young, Mrs. Kohlauf says "I love modern." Besides, she feels that an interesting and challenging occupation during retirement age keeps one young.

" I feel that nothing better could happen to an older person than to have an interest in something. This gives a lift and meaning to life."

National Praise For Westborough Homes

Westborough, the 659-acre planned community in the hills of Northern San Mateo County, received national recognition this month in House & Home magazine as an example of a highly successful home-building project.

The lead article, which features Westborough, draws attention to the fact that "good merchandising starts with a basic idea, like a house that gives people all the space they've always wanted."

Bonus living space, a novel feature in the large two-story Westborough Models, gives homeowners the opportunity to finish the ample storage space on the ground floor into extra bedrooms, baths, rumpus rooms, home offices or hobby areas as the family grows and its needs change.

House & Home editors commended developer Bert Williams for "paying first attention to the product—the house and its neighborhood."

They went on to laud architect Edward H. Fickett, for providing "glass walls and decks to take advantage of a view of San Francisco Bay."

"Instead of dividing all the space into closed rooms, Fickett organized the daytime living-dining areas to flow into each other, or to the outdoors, or even to another level."

D. C. Musicians Will Audition

Two Daly City musicians are among 34 from Northern California who will take part in the regional auditions being conducted Friday and Saturday, June 8 and 9, by the Young Musicians Foundation in its 1962 competition for California's best young pianist, vocalist, string player and composer

The Daly City entrants are singers Claudia E White, 21, of 84 Palisades Drive, and Jeriel Franzel, 26, of 37 E Moltke St. They will compete against 21 other vocalists in the northern regional auditions to be conducted in Steinway Hall of the Sherman Clay Music Co., San Francisco. Also competing in the northern regionals are three violinists and eight pianists.

The two winners in each category chosen in San Francisco will go to Los Angeles to compete against the two finalists chosen in the piano, vocal and string playing competitions of the Southern California regional audition.

Statewide finals take place Saturday, June 23, in Schoenberg Hall, UCLA, Los Angeles, with some of the world's outstanding musicians serving as judges, according to Sylvia Knnin of Los Angeles, Young Musicians Foundation executive vice president.

Vista Mar School

The kindergarten classes of Mrs. Helen Boyle at Vista Mar visited Fleishhacker zoo Monday, May 21, to study the many different animals. The groups went by bus to the zoo, taking their lunches with them.

After lunch, the children, in groups of six and accompanied by one of the mothers, went to see the different animals and birds. The children were very interested in viewing the animals while listening to the stories recorded in the storybooks near the cages and the grottos.

The animals which the children viewed with most interest were the anteaters, hippopotamus, rhinoceros, elephants and giraffes. They bought food for the seals.

The highlight of the trip was the visit to the elephant house where they were able to see the tiny baby elephant which was recently acquired by the zoo.

The mothers accompanying the children were Mrs. Hurley, Mrs. Kneebone, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Cash, Mrs. Frederico, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Lillef and Mrs. Pulliam.

Local Girl Scouts Visit World Fair

Broadmoor Girl Scout Troop 420 will leave Sunday, June 17, for a tour of the world's Fair in Seattle.

The group, consisting of 15 girls, will be accompanied by Mrs. James Andersen and Mrs. Molly Phillips.

The trip culminates out of a year's preparation, which included pot luck dinners, baby sitting, candy sales and girl scout calendar sales.

"We wish to thank the many people of Broadmoor, Westlake and Garden Village for helping make this trip possible," said Mrs. Phillips, spokesman for the group.

FRED SEAGER and BOB BERTOLANI, co-managers of the Western Garden Shop in Daly City, survey a new shipment of flowers and shrubs.

"WHY?"

By Paris B. Simmons

Research proves that in practically every case of juvenile delinquency there exists a pattern of school truancy,—or dislike of school. This week our column is devoted to truancy, next week we shall investigate the problem of dislike.

The basic responsibility for the existence of truancy in Daly City must be shouldered jointly by the school districts and by the parents. The action currently being taken by the school districts is not sufficient to repress this type of delinquency. A much stronger program must be instigated if the situation is to be improved. The schools are somewhat handicapped with the apathetic parent in dealing with this problem. However, a stronger program, at the administrative levels, should bring about positive results.

No Exceptions

Article 12101 - 12501 of the State of California Education Code states emphatically that all children between the ages of eight and sixteen years, not exempted by law, are required to attend public school full time, for which the public schools of the district are in session.

No exceptions are granted for the missing of school for the purposes of baby-sitting, going to town, getting a new hair-do, or just staying home because of the late hours of the parents the night before. These are all unexcusable absences and according to law must be listed as such in the registers of attendance kept by the teachers. Abstenteeism of this nature deprives the school district of attendance monies which are appropriated by the legislature on a basis of daily attendance. There is provision for authorized absence for medical and dental care, as well as illness.

The school is not penalized for this type of absence.

There are some parents who do not care about the educational welfare of their children, or fail to realize the damage that is being done by their attitudes. These parents will allow a child to stay home on the least provocation. Then these same parents set an example by writing an excuse for the child which is nothing more than a falsehood. The value pattern of the child cannot help but be affected. Is it more important to babysit than to receive an education? Is it more important to go shopping than obey the compulsory education law? Education becomes secondary as the selfish desires of the adult take over. It is the contention of this writer that the real delinquents, in these cases, are the adults who are contributing to the delinquency of their children.

Poor Attendance

A check on the pattern of attendance of a student will show that many are absent every time a major classroom assignment is due, or a test is to be given. A number of parents perjure themselves with a note in such instances saying the child was ill,—when the child will be seen by his classmates playing in the streets or becoming a problem in one of the shopping centers. There are other situations where parents work and there is no provision for supervision, so the child is free to make his own regulations about when he will or will not attend school.

There are numerous other cases, all similar in nature, which will be known to any educator that has been teaching for a few years. These cases are not isolated to Daly City, but there does appear to be a great deal of lienency in this area, which should be corrected.

Since the school people must point to their limitations working with parents, what can be done to clear up the problem? There are two plans which are suggested having proven themselves effective remedies in other school districts. Both of these are suggested as preventative and corrective techniques rather than punishment.

The Plans

Plan One: — This has been used successfully in a school district in Shasta County, bringing with it desired results of truancy elimination.

A teacher is assigned as attendance officer of two schools, for two periods a day. A card system is set up where each child absent is recorded, and the reason for such absenteeism. On the third absentee the school nurse is requested to visit the home, reporting back to the teacher the results. If it is evident that the child is ill, no action is taken,—if there is no illness apparent, the teacher then makes a home visit giving a copy of the compulsory education law to the parent and discussing the attendance of the child in detail with the parent.

In stubborn cases, of which there are a few, a second visit may be needed by the teacher, with the details being submitted to the County Juvenile authorities for further action, if necessary.

Using this plan the drop in absenteeism was over 50% within a school year, which resulted in the teacher having to devote but a single period a day to the follow - ups and card system the following year.

Plan No. 2: — A substitute plan might be worked out with local police, whereby the police officer assists the school in verifying obvious cases of truancy. Working together this might be the simplest solution for the problem that faces our community today. . .

Car Flips, Two Hurt In Mishaps

A spectacular accident occurred early June 2 on Junipero Serra boulevard south of the Chinese Cemetery road after a car driven by Richard H Pearl, 33, a San Francisco restaurant owner, swerved off the road and struck and sheared off a power pole three feet above the ground.

The pole was hurled into a northbound slow lane and a guy wire was stretched across almost the entire roadway. A few minutes later a southbound car driven by Roland Visperas, 19, of 623 San Mateo avenue, passed the wire, turned around and flipped over. Although Visperas escaped injury, Pearl was treated for minor hurts. Officers said the guy wire apparently became entangled in the auto, causing it to overturn.

Carol Ann Jelmyer, 19, a bakery clerk of 135 Manzanita avenue, South San Francisco, suffered neck and back injuries when her car was involved in a three-car rear-end collision on Junipero Serra boulevard south of Ninety-first st. in Colma, June 1. Officers said a car driven by Ronald I. Goldman, 20, a San Francisco City college student of 148 Northgate avenue, Daly City, struck the rear of Miss Jelmyer's car, which had stopped behind an auto which had halted to make a left turn.

Bluebirds Have Fun, Do Things, And Go Places

An important part of the Blue Bird program is the fulfilling of the Blue Bird wish: To have fun, to make beautiful things, and to go to interesting places. The Chirping Blue Birds of Westlake, under the leadership of Mrs. Warren Christ left no feather unruffled to live up to these "wishes."

Their flutter of activities began with "having fun" at the Fun House at Ocean Beach. They enjoyed all its existing activities as they romped through its thrills and spills.

Present were Reggie Alcola, Monica Knox, Diana Christ, Connie Gerber, Margie Wiener, Susan West, Noreen Foreman, Janice Martin and their guests for the day, Susan Storni, Patty Lucia and Janet Ferguson.

The girls, as their next activity, set to work on a "make beautiful things" project. They worked on their tote bags in which they will carry their belongings to day camp this summer. Each girl basted her denim bag and took a turn at the sewing machine under the watchful eye of their leader.

To "go interesting places," Mrs. Christ and her assistant leader, Mrs. Joseph Gerber, took the girls for a dip at Larsen pool in order to limber up their swimming in anticipation of a summer of Blue Bird fun.
